GOLDEN OPPORTUNITIES FOR NOCS IN NEW OLYMPIC CYCLE

As the Olympic Movement continues to flourish in Asia and around the world, the National Olympic Committees are providing the firm foundations on which to build our success.

This is why the new Quadrennial Plan of the IOC's Olympic Solidarity for 2013 to 2016 presents many exciting opportunities and initiatives for the NOCs to continue with this growth.

All the Asian NOCs are now familiar with the details of the new Quadrennial Plan, thanks to the two Olympic Solidarity/OCA Regional Forums held in Sri Lanka and Cambodia in March, and it really is a golden opportunity to enhance and expand your activities.

Olympic Solidarity experts from Lausanne made detailed presentations on the funding available through the World Programme, such as athlete scholarships and coaching development, while the OCA outlined the package of projects in the Continental Programme.

Further details can be found elsewhere in the newsletter, so I would just like to take the opportunity here to encourage NOCs to make the most of the funding and the programmes at your disposal. Don't let it go to waste. It is for you, the NOCs, to use with your creativity, leadership and forward-planning.

There are many categories of funding available, and all of them are designed to assist the NOCs in their day-to-day administration and thereby strengthen the Olympic Movement as a whole.

Finally, I would like to thank the two host NOCs of the Regional Forums – Sri Lanka and Cambodia. The working environment and organisation was first-class, and the hospitality and surroundings showed Asia in all its cultural diversity and exotic splendour.

SHEIKH AHMAD RECEIVES ORDER OF MERIT IN AUSTRALIA

His Excellency Sheikh Ahmad Al Fahad Al Sabah was awarded the Olympic Order of Merit by the Australian Olympic Committee on the sidelines of the 59th ANOC Executive Council meeting in Sydney on Tuesday, March 5. The ANOC and OCA President was presented with the award by Australian Olympic Committee President and IOC member John Coates in front of ANOC guests and members of the Olympic Solidarity Commission at a dinner at the home of prominent Sydney businessman John Symond.

The Executive of the Australian Olympic Committee saw fit to give Sheikh Ahmad the AOC Order of Merit for his remarkable contribution to the development of sport. In his remarks, Coates affectionately called Sheikh Ahmad just the second "foreigner" to receive an AOC Order of Merit. The only other non-Australian recipient is current IOC President Jacques Rogge, who led an ANOC delegation to Brisbane, Australia, in 2003.

WRESTLING FIGHTS TO STAY IN 2020 OLYMPIC GAMES

The Executive Board of the International Olympic Committee has agreed on the 25 sports it will propose to the 125th IOC Session for approval as the core sports for the 2020 Olympic Games.

The 25 sports are: athletics, rowing, badminton, basketball, boxing, canoeing, cycling, equestrian, fencing, football, gymnastics, weightlifting, handball, hockey, judo, aquatics, modern pentathlon, taekwondo, tennis, table tennis, shooting, archery, triathlon, sailing and volleyball.

The EB recommended that wrestling, governed by the International Federation of Associated Wrestling Styles (FILA), not be included on the list of core sports.

Wrestling will now join the seven shortlisted sports – baseball/softball, karate, roller sports, sport climbing, squash, wakeboarding and wushu – vying for inclusion in the 2020 Olympic programme as an additional sport.

The eight sports are scheduled to make presentations to the Executive Board at its meeting in St Petersburg, Russia, in May.

The EB will select which of the eight sports to recommend to the 125th IOC Session in Buenos Aires, Argentina, from September 7-10 for inclusion as an additional sport on the 2020 programme.

IOC WARNS KOC

The Executive Board of the IOC has issued strong warnings to Korean footballer Park Jong Woo and the Korean Olympic Committee for inappropriate behaviour by the athlete during the London 2012 Olympic Games.

The Executive Board also called on the KOC to submit, for the IOC's review and approval, a programme proposed and designed by the KOC to educate its athletes on the rules of the Olympic Charter and respect for Olympic values.

The Korean men's football team finished third at London 2012, and the EB has informed the KOC to deliver a bronze medal to Park as long as it is done without fanfare or publicity of any kind.

IOC, OCA BACKS POA

The IOC and OCA met IOC member Syed Shahid Ali and Pakistan NOC President Lt Gen (retired) Syed Arif Hasan in Lausanne and all aspects of the situation currently prevailing in the Olympic Movement in Pakistan were reviewed.

The IOC issued a statement saying that the Pakistan Olympic Association had conducted its regular quadrennial elections on February 4, 2012 in a fair, transparent and democratic manner, in the presence of IOC and OCA observers, IOC member Syed Shahid Ali and all members of the POA General Assembly.

As a consequence, the IOC and OCA reiterated their full support to the legitimate POA, which is the sole and unique body recognised by the IOC and which has exclusive jurisdiction to deal with any Olympic-related matters in Pakistan.

SARAH LEE CROWNED HONG KONG SPORTS STAR FOR 2012

Hong Kong cycling queen Sarah Lee Wai Sze was named Sports Star of the Year at the prestigious Bank of China Hong Kong Sports Stars Awards 2012 gala dinner and presentation at the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre on March 14.

There were 126 nominations from 40 National Sports Associations, with 104 athletes competing for the individual awards.

In addition, the recently retired Hong Kong cycling legend Wong Kam Po was presented with the Hong Kong Sportsman of the Year Award.

To complete an unforgettable evening at the Sports Stars Awards, Sarah was also named "Best of the Best" involving winners of all six categories.

OCA PRESIDENT VISITS IRAQ

OCA/ANOC President HE Sheikh Ahmad Al Fahad Al Sabah became the first global sports leader from the Olympic Movement to make an official visit to Iraq since 1990 when he conducted a two-day trip to Baghdad and Basra in late March.

Speaking to Kuwait News Agency on his return, Sheikh Ahmad said his visit was a “positive translation” of the agreement to cement bilateral ties reached by His Highness the Amir Sheikh Sabah Al Ahmad Al Jaber Al Sabah during his visit to Iraq in 2012.

Sheikh Ahmad said his two-city trip highlighted a shared desire to enhance youth exchanges and sports activities between the two countries.

“Sports and the friendly youth exchanges are conducive to the enhancement of the values of peace, mutual understanding and cooperation which, in turn, have a positive impact on political and economic ties,” he pointed out.

He added that his visit aimed to assess the quality of Iraq's sports facilities, particularly for football, and verify the country's preparations for hosting the 22nd Gulf Cup in the southern city of Basra in 2015.

Sheikh Ahmad arrives by helicopter to visit Basra International Football Stadium.

CENTRAL ASIA - A FUTURE POWER

In mid-March, Sheikh Ahmad conducted a five-country tour of Central Asia to assess the development of sport and the Olympic Movement in the region.

Sheikh Ahmad visited Uzbekistan, Kyrgyzstan, 2011 Asian Winter Games host Kazakhstan, Tajikistan and Turkmenistan, which will stage the 5th Asian Indoor and Martial Arts Games in 2017.

The OCA and ANOC President is convinced that Central Asia will be a new sports power in the near future, and noted their rapidly improving results in the Olympic Games and Asian Games, even with limited resources.

Furthermore, the governments of the five countries have increased their support for their NOCs, which will contribute significantly to the further development and rise of the Olympic Movement in Central Asia.

SAMARANCH MEMORIAL OPENS IN TIANJIN, CHINA

The first Samaranch Memorial was inaugurated on April 21 in Tianjin, China, in the presence of IOC President Jacques Rogge, the Samaranch family and many IOC members who came to pay tribute to the late IOC President three years to the day after he passed away.

The project brings to life the wish of IOC EB member and renowned architect Wu Ching-kuo to share Samaranch's Olympic treasure with the world. Samaranch donated his lifelong Olympic collections to the Chinese Taipei IOC member.

"We all know what we owe to Juan Antonio Samaranch," said President Rogge.

"If our Movement is today strong and united it is thanks to his visionary qualities and extraordinary talent. Juan Antonio Samaranch left us a great legacy that we must conserve and perpetuate. This Memorial is the greatest homage that we can pay to him."

The Memorial will display more than 16,000 items from Samaranch's personal collection - books, stamps, souvenirs, paintings, letters, photographs and personal items, as well as a precious collection of texts on Olympic-related themes.

OLYMPIC SOLIDITY US$435 MILLION

The good news just kept on coming for Asia's National Olympic Committees at the two Olympic Solidarity/OCA Regional Forums in March.

First came the presentations from Olympic Solidarity, which will have a budget of US$435 million to assist the world's 200+ NOCs for the next Quadrennial Plan, 2013-2016. This is an increase of 40 per cent compared to the previous cycle.

Then came the news from the OCA's Asian Games department manager, Haider Farman, that just over US$29 million would be available for Asia's NOCs through Olympic Solidarity's Continental Programme.

Included in these numbers was an annual administration subsidy to each NOC of US$125,000, comprised of US$40,000 from the World Programme and US$85,000 from the OCA through the Continental Programme. And that's just the tasty appetizer at the Olympic Solidarity banquet.

Thanks to a detailed description of the programmes and projects available, the NOCs were encouraged to invest in their own future by making the most of the opportunities available for their athletes and administrators alike.

ARITY DELIVERS ON JACKPOT

“We should use this fund correctly, efficiently and creatively,” the OCA’s Honorary Life Vice President, Wei Jizhong, told delegates at the regional forum for NOCs from West Asia, Central Asia and South Asia at Colombo, Sri Lanka, on March 22-23. “No abuse is allowed,” he added.

“We believe you have everything you need to start the quadrennial plan,” concluded Olympic Solidarity’s Manager for Asia, Olivier Niamkey, at the forum for NOCs from South East Asia and East Asia at Siem Reap Angkor, Cambodia, on March 26-27. “This is the end of the forum but the beginning of the plan,” he said.

The World Programme has the largest percentage of the US$435 million budget: US$124 million, or 37 per cent, for athletes and teams, coaches, NOC management and the promotion of Olympic values.

Next comes the Continental Programme (US$122 million, 33 per cent), ANOC (US$48 million, 11 per cent), Olympic Games subsidies (US$43 million, 10 per cent), Complementary Programmes (US$21 million, 5 per cent) and Administration/Communications (US$18 million, 4 per cent).

OCA OUTLINES CONTINENTAL PROGRAMME

The Olympic Council of Asia has added a new category to its Olympic Solidarity Continental Programme for 2013-2016: Social Development Through Olympism.

The OCA's Asian Games department manager, Haider Farman, informed the NOCs that the OCA planned to conduct between 10 and 12 projects a year in this new category, each with a budget of US$8,000.

The nine areas of funding for the Continental Programme are:

- ✱ OCA administration
- ✱ NOC activities, including an annual US$85,000 administration subsidy for staff salaries, office equipment etc – an increase of US$20,000.
- ✱ OCA youth camp. The sport for 2013 is taekwondo.
- ✱ Social development through Olympism.
- ✱ Continental and regional games participation subsidies, on a sliding scale from the Asian Games at US$20,000 per NOC.
- ✱ Olympasia, with US$100,000 available for four projects a year, towards the construction costs of new sports facilities or upgrading/renovating existing buildings.
- ✱ Asian Games Fun Run, Fun Learn and Youth Reporter Project to promote the 17th Asian Games in Incheon, Korea, in 2014.
- ✱ OCA special projects, for example natural disasters such as flooding or an earthquake.
- ✱ OCA meetings, including Executive Board, General Assembly and Chefs de Mission Seminars.

NOCS DISPLAY SOLIDARITY AT REGIONAL FORUMS

The Olympic Solidarity/OCA Regional Forums provided the opportunity for Asian NOCs to inform their colleagues of the programmes they conducted in the previous cycle.

Athletes: Tajikistan reported on the high success rate of Olympic scholarship recipients qualifying for London 2012 (13 of 15), while Cambodia outlined a youth identification talent programme in eight sports building up to the 2014 Nanjing YOG.

Coaches: Sri Lanka reported on a grassroots tennis promotion, particularly successful in the previously war-torn Jaffna peninsula, and Indonesia focused on a three-day strength and conditioning course for female coaches.

NOC Management: Bhutan informed the forum of a long-term strategy put in place to develop sports infrastructure and build a sports culture, and Mongolia gave details of a three-month internship for a staff member with NOC Malaysia.

Promotion of Olympic Values: Maldives reported on the involvement of schools in an Olympic quiz and other activities, and Vietnam conducted a Sport for All project from village to city.

OCA'S OLYMPASIA PROJECT AT WORK IN CAMBODIA

The opening ceremony of the Olympic Solidarity/OCA Regional Forum at Siem Reap Angkor on March 26 provided an insight into the ambition of the NOC of Cambodia.

The NOC President and Minister of Tourism, H.E. Dr Thong Khon, said the Olympic Movement in the “Kingdom of Wonder” was developing quickly thanks to the support of the OCA and Olympic Solidarity.

He referred in particular to the OCA-funded Sports Science and Medical Centre which will be housed in the new NOC headquarters, due to be opened on June 13 by Prime Minister Hun Sen.

The seven-storey building will provide office space for 40 national sports federations, 18 of them Olympic sports and 22 non-Olympic sports, as well as the Paralympic and Special Olympic organisations.

There will also be a gymnasium for national team training, a media centre, executive floor and conference hall for 200 people aimed at building up human resources.

The government has met most of the construction costs, estimated at US$3 million, and will also build a new, 100,000-capacity stadium

15km from Phnom Penh city centre.

The new stadium will be the focal point of the 2023 SEA Games – the first time Cambodia will have hosted the regional multi-sports extravaganza.

PHNOM PENH PREPARES TO CELEBRATE OLYMPIC DAY

The NOC of Cambodia is inviting runners from near and far to take part in the 3rd Phnom Penh International Half Marathon on June 16 as part of their Olympic Day celebrations.

NOC Secretary General Vath Chamroeun says the capital's premier sports event will take place in the city centre, starting in front of the Royal Palace and running along four rivers.

“The participants will be from many nations, showing the diversity of Phnom Penh's population,” said Vath. “The half marathon will be held in conjunction with World Environment Day and Olympic Day and to celebrate the birthday of Queen Norodom Monineath Sihanouk.”

There will be three distances - 21km, 10km and 3km - and the funds collected will support Kantha Bopha Hospital and the Cambodian Mine Action Centre.

OCA COUNTS DOWN TO CENTENNIAL FESTIVAL

An OCA delegation led by the President, HE Sheikh Ahmad Al Fahad Al Sabah, visited the Philippines in early March to meet with the organisers of the Asian Games Centennial Festival, which will be held on Boracay Island in November.

The festival will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the first recognised multi-sports games in Asia - the Far Eastern Championships, in Manila in 1913. This event would evolve into the Asian Games, first held in 1951 and now the pride of the OCA.

Sheikh Ahmad said the Centennial Festival would display to guests from around the sports world Asia's early commitment to the values and solidarity of Olympism.

"All our partners and sponsors will be involved in the Centennial Festival to show Asia's rich sports history and culture through the five zones of the OCA," he said.

The meeting took place on Thursday, March 7 at the new Marriott Hotel near Manila international airport, after which a celebratory lunch was held in honour of Sheikh Ahmad and hosted by Philippine Olympic Committee President Jose Cojuangco Jr.

The official dates for the Centennial Festival are

November 27-29, with the first day reserved for OCA standing committee meetings.

The 64th OCA Executive Board meeting will be held on Thursday, November 28, followed by the Centennial Festival. The 32nd OCA General Assembly will take place on November 29.

OCA ADVISORY COMMITTEE MEETS IN TAIPEI

The OCA Advisory Committee met in Taipei on Saturday, March 9, under the chairmanship of Ng Ser Miang, IOC Vice President from Singapore.

The members agreed that 2013 would be a very important year for the Olympic Movement as the IOC members will elect a new IOC President in September and choose the host cities of the 2020 Olympic Games and 2018 Youth Olympic Games.

The members were of the unanimous opinion that Asia - under the presidency of HE Sheikh Ahmad Al Fahad Al Sabah - should work in total solidarity and unity so that the interests of the Asian continent are strongly represented and protected within the Olympic Movement.

The members thanked Dr Wu Ching Kuo, IOC Executive Board member, and the Chinese Taipei Olympic Committee, under its President, Thomas Tsai, for their hospitality and the excellent environment for the meeting.

Despite the tight schedule, members also toured the world-famous National Palace Museum in Taipei.

COORDINATION COMMITTEE VISITS INCHEON, NANJING

OCA CC members in Incheon, Korea.

The Coordination Committee gathered in East Asia in mid-April to oversee preparations for the OCA's two major events this year, and for the 17th Asian Games in 2014.

The first stop was Incheon, Korea, for the 6th CC meeting for the 4th Asian Indoor and Martial Arts Games from June 29 to July 6, 2013, and the 17th Asian Games from September 19 to October 4, 2014.

The meeting took place on Monday, April 15, and was chaired by the OCA's Honorary Life Vice President, Wei Jizhong, in the absence of CC Chairman Tsunekazu Takeda, who was busy with Tokyo's bid for the 2020 Olympic Games.

After a series of presentations by various departments of IAGOC, the CC members visited the AIMAG Athletes' Village, which is comprised of two university campuses and the POSCO Research and Development Centre as the International Zone.

"The rooms and the services in the university dormitories are like a four-star hotel," said CC member Dr M. Jegathesan, Chairman of the OCA Medical Committee. "With the high-tech facilities available at the International Zone, I am sure the athletes and officials from the NOCs will have everything they need close at hand to conduct a very successful Games."

The next day, the CC members travelled from Incheon to Nanjing, China, for the fourth and final CC meeting ahead of the 2nd Asian Youth Games from August 16-24, 2013.

The meeting was held on Wednesday, April 17, and chaired by OCA Vice President Hemasiri Fernando, President of the NOC of Sri Lanka.

"I am very happy and proud to be here because Sri Lanka is the host of the 3rd Asian Youth Games at Hambantota in 2017," he said.

"It will give me the chance to study and report on Nanjing's preparations before we send a team of observers here for the Games."

Football's world governing body FIFA says a wider recognition of women's football is a key feature in the encouraging development of the game as a whole in Afghanistan.

"Eight years ago Afghan football was almost dead," AFF President Keramuddin Karim told FIFA.com.

"However, through strategic planning in the area of infrastructure we have been able to set up the basis for the future. FIFA's first Goal project was fundamental since it provided us with an artificial pitch we are currently using for our league matches in Kabul."

GOLDEN MOMENT FOR ASIAN SPORTS LEADERS

OCA Executive Board member Rita Subowo has been named in the Golden 25 list of the most influential women in sport by Around the Rings.

The IOC member and Indonesian Olympic Committee President was joined by HRH Princess Haya bint Al Hussein of Jordan, President of the International Equestrian Federation (FEI) and also an IOC member.

Around the Rings selected HRH Princess Haya not only for her achievements in equestrian sport but also for her humanitarian aid efforts, including serving as a United Nations Messenger of Peace and Goodwill Ambassador for the UN World Food Programme.

ASSAD LIGHTS UP YRP

The 80 students at the Youth Reporter Project had a day to remember when national football hero Assad Abdul Ghani arrived as the special guest for the Press Conference exercise.

Assad, known as the Golden Captain after Maldives' success in the South Asian Football Federation Championship in 2008, stopped off at Kalaafaanu School on his way to training.

The 37-year-old national sports celebrity spent 15 minutes answering questions from the students about his career and his forthcoming retirement from international football. Wearing a Fun Run + Learn T-shirt, he was then asked to select the best two questions and presented the two lucky students with a souvenir gift

BHUTAN PREPARES FOR A LONG CLIMB

Looking up at the snow-capped peaks of Bhutan, beyond the rich green pine forests and winding mountain trails, the view is simply stunning.

But it requires a lot of effort and stamina to reach the top, and only the most ambitious and adventurous will stay the course.

This is where the Bhutan Olympic Committee stands right now: at the start of an arduous climb but determined to keep moving forward and plant their flag proudly at the summit.

"We have a very long journey ahead of us," admits the BOC President, His Royal Highness Prince Jigyel Ugyen Wangchuck, the dashing young crown prince of Bhutan.

"If sport is to succeed in Bhutan we need all support from the government, the business sector, from all stakeholders, because the investment we make in sport is an investment in the future of our country. You put in the energy today and you see the dividends in 10-15 years."

One big step in the right direction is the formation of a sports policy task force, led by HRH Prince Jigyel and comprised of the Ministry of Education, Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Labour and Human Resources, Royal University of Bhutan, Bhutan Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the BOC.

The task force will produce a sports policy addressing both the hardware (sports infrastructure) and the software, meaning a value-based sports culture through a "sports in education" programme and also through the establishment of clubs and sports associations in the regions.

The OCA's Olympasia Project has supported the BOC on three occasions for the construction of multi-sport halls in Gelephu, Gyalposhing and Trashigang districts, and - under a 20-year roadmap with a budget of US$50 million - the BOC plans to build 27 multi-sport halls and five regional sports centres in the medium and long-term.

"In the short run, we will be looking at building a sports and recreation centre in Thimphu that will have indoor facilities for about six sports," says BOC Secretary General Sonam Karma Tshering

"From our own experience with the newly installed astro turf football pitch, nothing generates more interest than world-class sporting infrastructure."

Bhutan NOC Secretary General Sonam Karma Tshering.

TO THE TOP

Developing a comprehensive “sports in education” programme in the schools, however, remains crucial to the movement in Bhutan.

The benefits will be immense, as Sonam explains: “This would not only help us establish a broader base of athletes and create a larger selection pool, it would also provide the youth with a holistic academic experience and a love for sports.

“More importantly, we hope that, through sports, we will be able to inculcate in our youth the soft skills so essential in today's world, such as values, discipline, respect, camaraderie, honour and, above all, happiness, thus making them better and healthier citizens. A value-based sporting culture is our ultimate vision.”

AIMAG OFFERS ‘HOPE FOR THE FUTURE’

The stage is set for the first OCA Games of the year – and a new chapter in multi-sports events for the Olympic Movement in Asia.

From June 29 to July 6, Incheon Metropolitan City will host the 4th Asian Indoor and Martial Arts Games, a nine-sport, 100-event indoor extravaganza that combines the Asian Indoor Games and Asian Martial Arts Games for the first time.

The early indications are that the OCA's National Olympic Committees have welcomed the new-look AIMAG with open arms, as the number of athletes set to participate approaches 1,900.

The AIMAG fashion show at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

With nine venues to showcase a diverse range of sports, from the elegance and precision of dance sport to the intensity and aggression of kickboxing, the 4th AIMAG will not only serve as a high-profile test event for the 17th Asian Games in 2014 but also provide entertainment and top-level competition in its own right for the Korean public.

Certainly the workforce, staff and volunteers will stand out, as a fashion show on April 15 revealed the attractive designs of the sports and official uniforms. A total of 40,291 uniforms will be produced for 8,652 people by sponsor Cheil Industries, with the design concept “Hope for the Future”.

Another milestone on the road to the opening ceremony is the draw for team sports (kabaddi and futsal) and the Technical Delegates meeting on May 23.

MOUNTAIN VENUE FOR TORCH LIGHTING CEREMONY

The Torch Relay for the 4th AIMAG will start and finish on the same day: June 29 – date of the opening ceremony at the Samsan World Gymnasium.

The flame-lighting ceremony will be held from 10am to 10.30am at Chamseongdan Altar on Mount Manisan, Ganghwa Island, followed by an official event on a specially constructed stage on Mt Manisan from 11am to 11.20am.

The Torch Relay route is 50.8km, passing through 43 legs. Forty torch bearers will run a total distance of 7.3km, while vehicles will pass through the remaining three legs covering 43.5km.

The 40 torch bearers will include OCA and NOC representatives as well as local citizens and sponsors. Torch welcome events will be held at Noeuljong (Sunset Bell) in Jeongseojin and the Bupyeong-gu office district.

Sheikh Ahmad said the 4th Asian Indoor and Martial Arts Games this June and the 17th Asian Games in September 2014 would display the unity and solidarity of the Asian continent.

"We are happy and proud to be here with you, not as guests but as partners, shoulder to shoulder, to work together," he added.

NAYGOC LIGHTS FLAME, LAUNCHES ONLINE RELAY

The flame-lighting ceremony and launch of the Virtual Torch Relay for the 2nd AYG were held on Wednesday, May 8 at the historic Purple Mountain Observatory in Nanjing.

More than 300 people took part in the festivities, which marked the 100-day countdown to the opening ceremony on August 16.

After the flame had been kindled, 14-year-old quadruplets from the Zhu family of Nanjing lit the torches in a symbolic gesture on behalf of the youth of this ancient city in eastern China.

The flame will be stored for the official city torch relay, involving 800 torch bearers and two 5km routes, in the build-up to the opening ceremony.

In the meantime, the Virtual Torch Relay will be available on line and will call at all 45 countries and regions of the OCA, taking in a total of 238 cities and scenic spots in Asia, China and Nanjing.

The OCA President, H.E. Sheikh Ahmad Al Fahad Al Sabah, sent a video message to the May 8 ceremony congratulating the organisers on their innovative plans.

"It's a very good idea to have this online torch relay because it involves the next generation – the youth," he said.

"It combines sport, the youth and new technology, and is a very clever and creative idea. I will be looking forward to the Virtual Torch Relay of the 2nd Asian Youth Games coming to Kuwait, home of the OCA, on May 29."

ASIAN YOUTH RALLIES ROUND NANJING 2013 WITH BUMPER ENTRY

The Asian Youth Games is proving to be wildly popular for the Olympic Council of Asia in only its second edition - almost too popular judging by the number of entries.

Members of the OCA Coordination Committee in Nanjing on April 17 heard that 33 NOCs had entered 2,735 athletes - 1,771 male and 964 female - for the 15 sports. The final deadline for Entry by Name for the 45 NOCs is June 25.

Team sports are proving to be particularly popular, meaning that football will start on August 13, three days before the opening ceremony and two days earlier than planned, and handball on August 14, three days earlier than the original competition schedule.

The men's football competition attracted 32 teams at the start of registration, but this has been reduced to a more manageable 18, possibly 20 teams. There are now four football pitches at the disposal of organisers instead of two, and two of the pitches have floodlights to allow evening kick-offs and avoid the 35-40C daytime temperatures.

With the overall capacity of the Athletes' Village set at 3,500, there is a contingency for the football delegations to be accommodated in hotels near the stadiums to reduce travel time and ease possible over-booking at the village for athletes and officials.

The draw for team sports and Technical Delegates meeting will be held on June 26.
